Claim 6 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 2, 4, and 7-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dalan et al (US 3922375) in view of Klarenbeek et al (EP 0603981).

Dalan et al disclose the preparation of a whey protein-stabilized fatty emulsion comprising acidifying an aqueous solution of whey protein, blending and homogenizing the acidified whey with fat to form an emulsion, and heat treating at 121°C (see entire patent, especially Examples 3, 5 and column 3, lines 28-40).

The claims differ as to the specific protein to fat ratios.

Klarenbeek et al disclose the preparation of a whey protein emulsion wherein the amounts of protein and fat are varied (see entire document, especially the abstract and Tables 2 and 3).

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to adjust the protein to fat ratios in that of Dalan et al as taught by Klarenbeek et al because the adjustment of protein and fat contents in emulsions is conventional in the art.

In the absence of a showing to the contrary, Applicant is using known components for their art recognized functions to obtain no more than expected results.
